

For her client Free Press Unlimited,

Dux International is searching an experienced

Resource Mobilisation & Donor Relations Specialist
with a passion for press freedom (38 hrs/wk)

The organisation

Across the globe, journalists and media pioneers have taken it on themselves to supply their communities with objective information. Free Press Unlimited actively supports these professionals in over forty countries, by offering them, among other things, trainings and temporary financial and material aid, and by strengthening their professional capacity. So that as many people as possible gain and keep access to truly vital information. For many people around the world, access to reliable information is by no means a given. Nevertheless, impartial information is of crucial importance to all of us. For more information check the website: www.freepressunlimited.org.

The position

Are you a dyed-in-the-wool fundraiser with a strong belief in freedom of the press and human rights? Will you, just like Free Press Unlimited, not just stand by while free media are put under pressure, journalists are prosecuted, and everyone's privacy comes under threat? Do you have a sound network of sponsors, an international orientation, leadership qualities and command of several languages? Then please, come and apply your talents for Free Press Unlimited, one of the most active media NGOs in the world.

Free Press Unlimited has an immediate vacancy for an experienced Resource Mobilisation & Donor Relations Specialist with audacity, diplomacy, vision and strategic insight. Someone who is able to establish ambitious fund-raising programmes to drive the organisation many years into the future, is able to deepen our relationships with existing institutional and individual donors, as well as attract new donors.

Free Press Unlimited does not only focus on the Netherlands for fundraising, but specifically also seek support from foreign governments, international corporations, foundations, funds, and benefactors. It is therefore essential that you have plenty of experience and a demonstrable network in the sphere of media development and press freedom. You would also be required to travel abroad regularly to meet with international contacts.

In this position, you will work in a dynamic and international environment. You will report directly to the Management Board. You will lead a team of two colleagues; one concentrates on fundraising from institutional donors (mainly proposal development), the other works at promoting relations with private funds.

Required skills and experience

- Minimum of 7-10 years of significant relevant professional experience within an international environment. Experience working with institutional donors, foundations is highly desirable;
- Demonstrated experience of developing and managing relations with major bilateral private and multilateral donors;
- Enthusiastic and proactive attitude to building partnerships with a broad range of internal and external stakeholders and driving results, including at senior level;
- Solid knowledge of international donors and procedures, including European and American governmental and nongovernmental funders;
- Understanding and experience of freedom of the press, media development, democratization, civil society, and/or similar issues.

What does Free Press Unlimited have to offer?

Free Press Unlimited offers you a position in a dynamic and international environment. Free Press Unlimited is based in the center of Amsterdam, offers a good pension scheme, offers 25 paid vacation days a year (on full-time basis) and compensates (public transport) travel costs.
